

Plexxikon

Scientific Writer (Consultant)

The Scientific Writer consultant will write and edit nonclinical study reports (including pharmacology, pharmacokinetic, and drug metabolism studies) and summary/overview sections in preparation for IND filings. Experience with CMC summary sections is also requested but not mandatory. Position will require apx. 15/hours of work per week.

Responsibilities

- Create study report templates that are both consistent with ICH guidelines and appropriate for Plexxikon's internal uses
- Interface with scientists on-site as needed to resolve inconsistencies and achieve clarity of study objectives and results
- Depending on the study, write from original source information or edit a study report to produce a high quality final product
- Compile summaries and overviews for pre-IND briefing packages and IND filings

Position Requirements & Experience

- Bachelors degree; biology- or chemistry-related disciplines preferred; Ph.D. or advanced degree highly desirable
- At least 5 years of relevant scientific writing experience, with significant writing for at least one successful IND
- Ability to work within a fast-paced and dynamic environment
- Detail-oriented, with proven ability to extract and assemble information from team members from varying disciplines
- Expert in use of Word software (Office 2007 preferred)
- Mastery of the English language with emphasis on consistency of prose and style. The work product must flow easily for the reader and be concisely written.
